Accolade

Hi Steve,

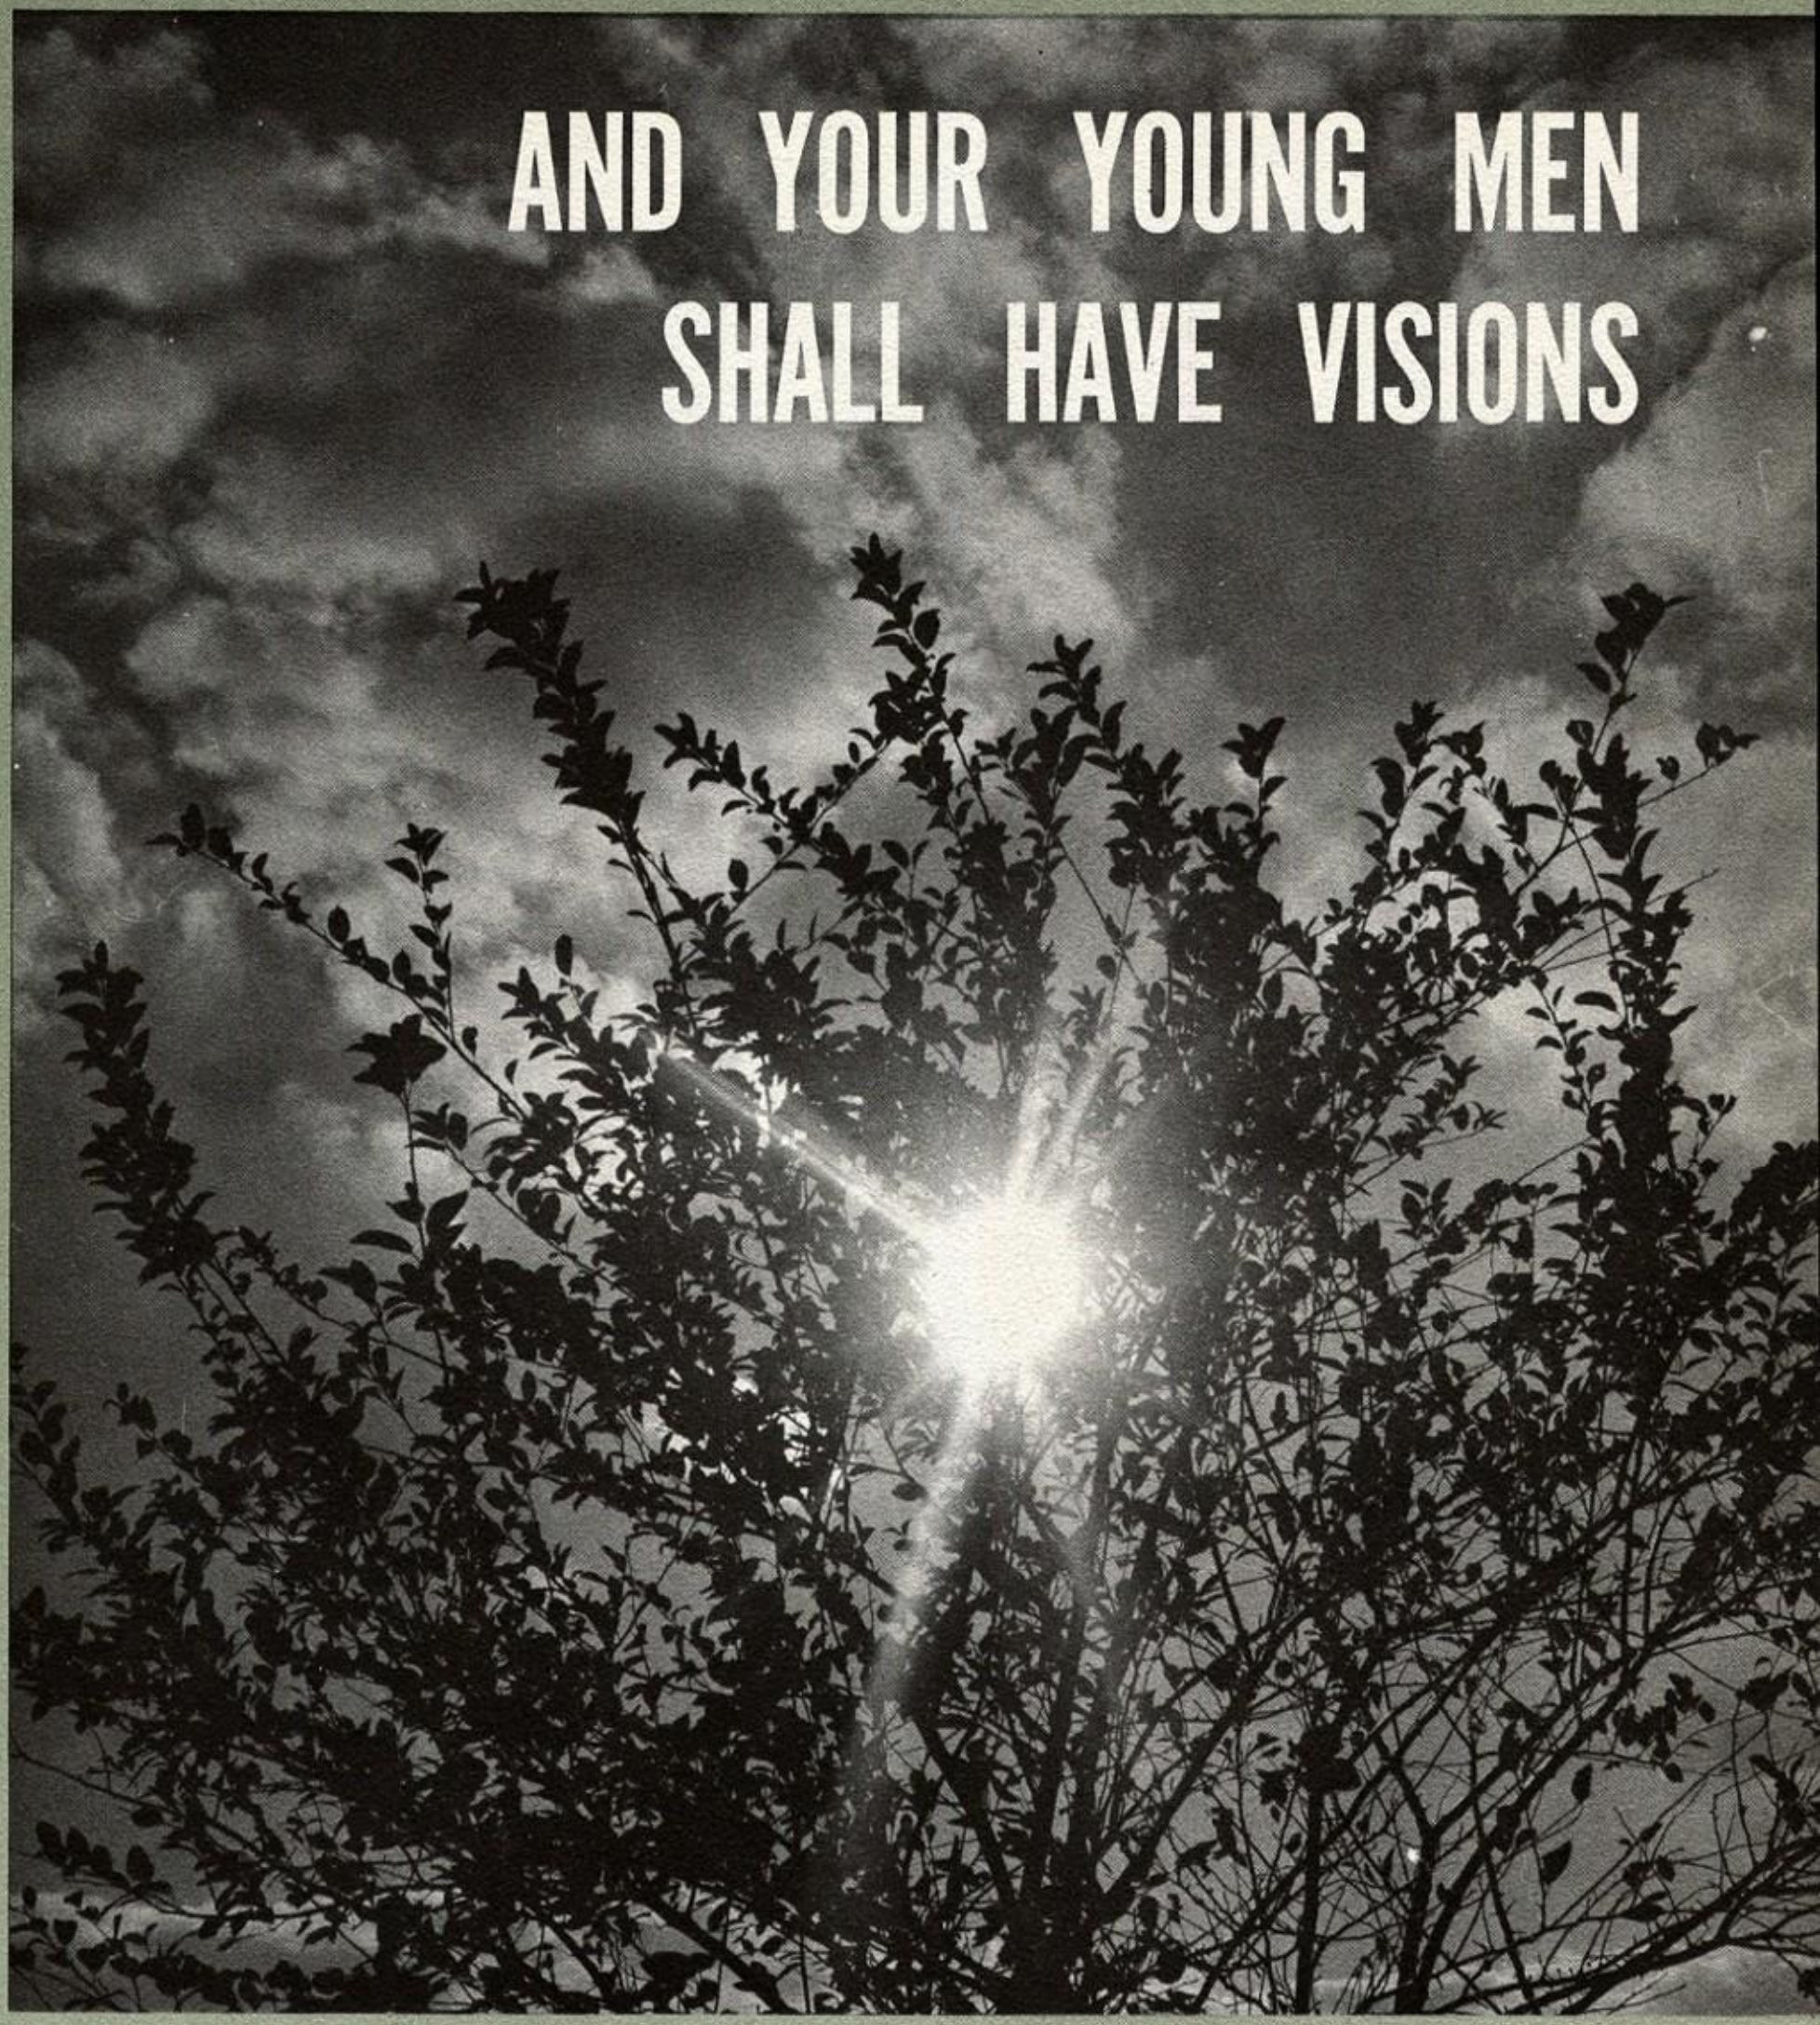
Well I wish I could say I don't know you very well but I guess I can't - You're great; you're cheap, ugly & I'm a liar - really Steve you're the coolest woman hustler in town (teach your brother how). You've got a great personality with a smile for everyone - It's really been good getting to know you better this last year & I hope I see a lot of you in the future.

Best of luck at college - I know you'll do great down there both socially & scholastically - you've got a lot of great potential (why you don't show it I'll never know)

Best of luck always

(Dave Cffee

P.S. If you ever need something I'll be glad to get it for you at a modest price.



AND YOUR YOUNG MEN
SHALL HAVE VISIONS

What will history say of us, not tomorrow, but a thousand tomorrows
after our doors have closed for the last time, and even our cities
return to dust.

Will she say.
Here lie 'decent' men,
a 'respectable' people,
upright, and yet . . .
somehow, godless.
Their gift to life was
the glass-sheathed city,
the micronite filter
and a thousand lost surfboards.

Or will she say,
These were men of vision,
a living generation.
Their feet were firmly planted in the affairs of this world, yet their heart and mind and faith saw another.

And because of this vision
they were really the only ones who could love this world.
They were really the only ones
who could speak of it.

This was a generation of prophets.

Their elders dreamed dreams.

Their young men had visions.

1967 ACCOLADE

St. Francis de Sales High School Bancroft & Parkside

Toledo, Ohio Volume 10

DO NOT FEAR THE

SIGHT OF THEM

This is why we have come to St. Francis, to overcome fear — the fear of facing
A generation that has lost
the use of the conscience within the need of the neighbor,
A generation that has lost
the value of responsibility within the gift of freedom,
A generation that has lost
all sense of heritage within the pursuit of tradition,
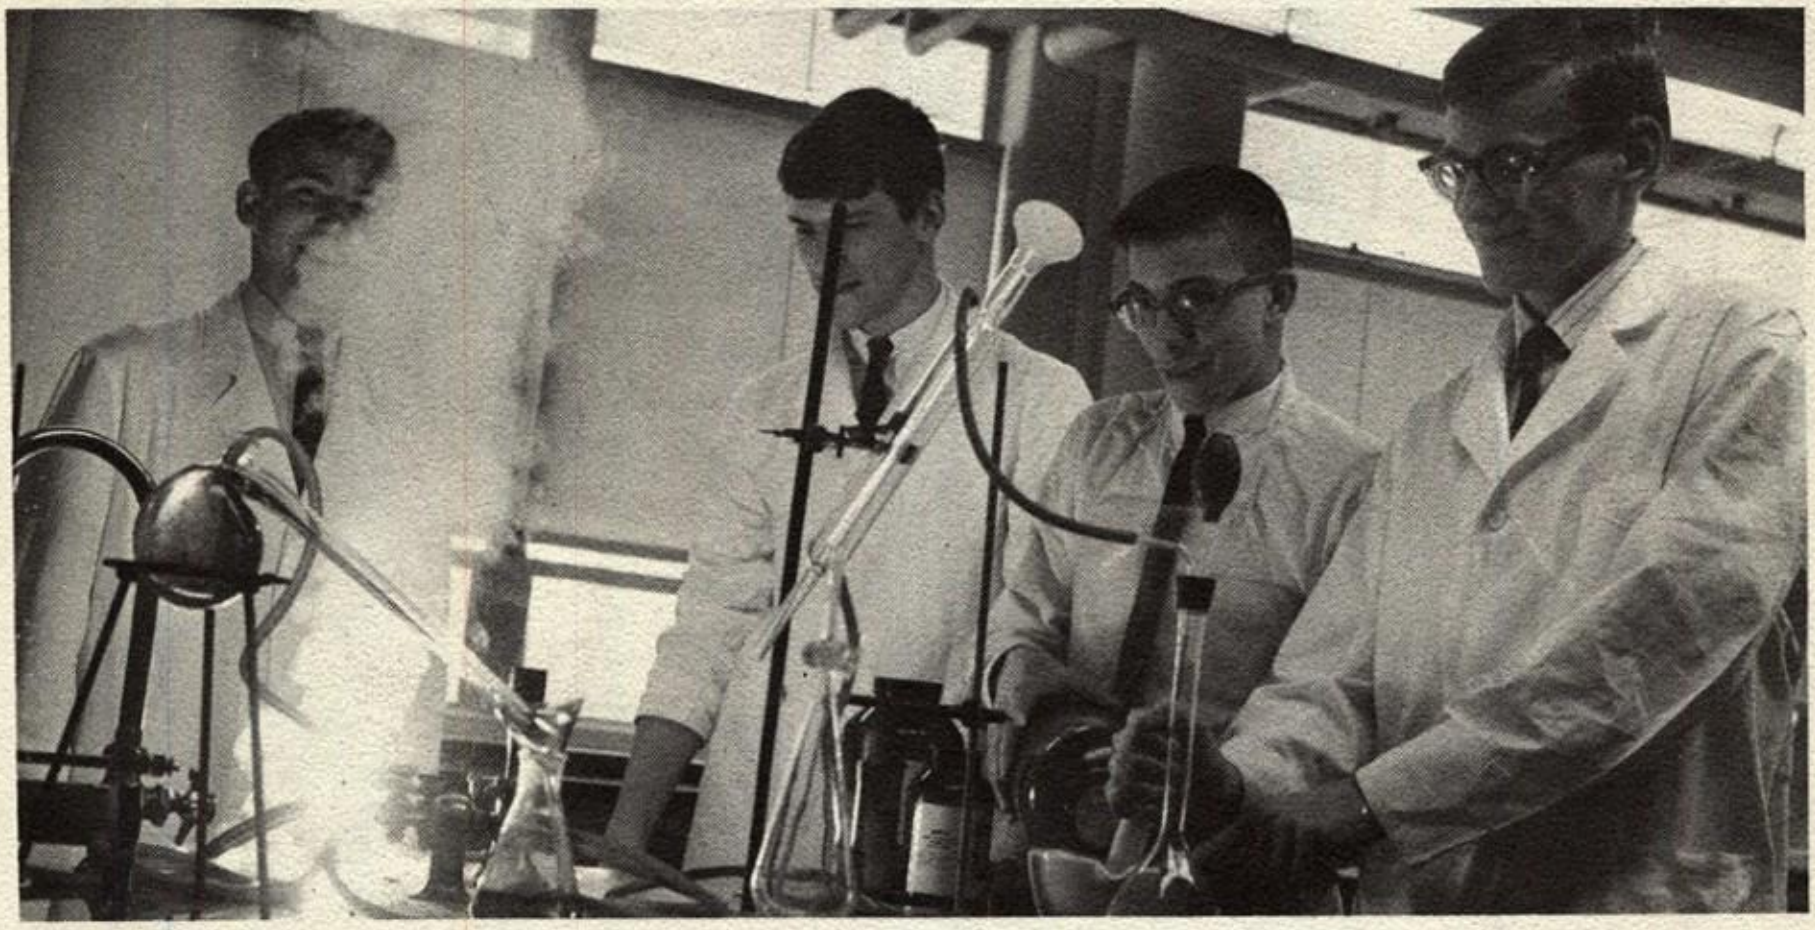
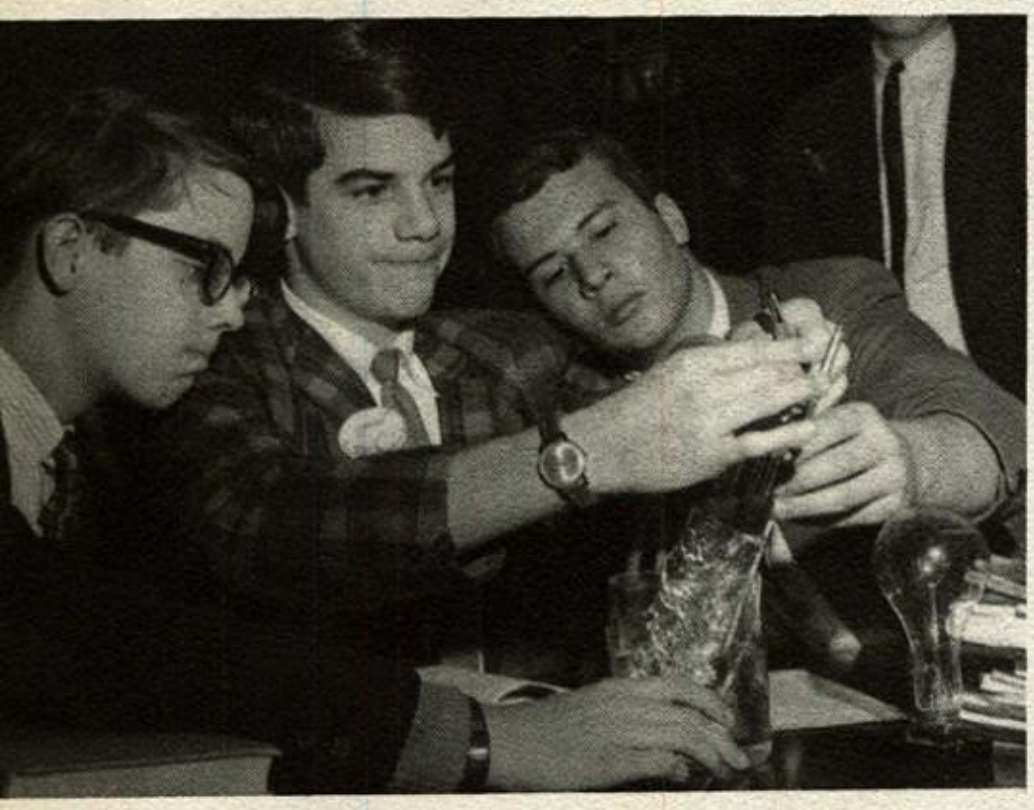
A generation that has lost
all vision,
Yet blindly gropes for one.

I HAVE APPOINTED YOU TO SPEAK





We overcome fear
through knowledge of the truth,
Not in sensationalism
But in being what we are to be,
Students within society,
exploring our world,
learning our traditions,
valuing our heritage,
listening to wisdom,
And coming closer with others
To the goal of our vision.

The student, like the prophet, speaks of his vision
to his generation,
In what he says,
In what he does,
In what he is.

If the present generation finds itself in a confused world, who better than the student understands the burden of the prophet?
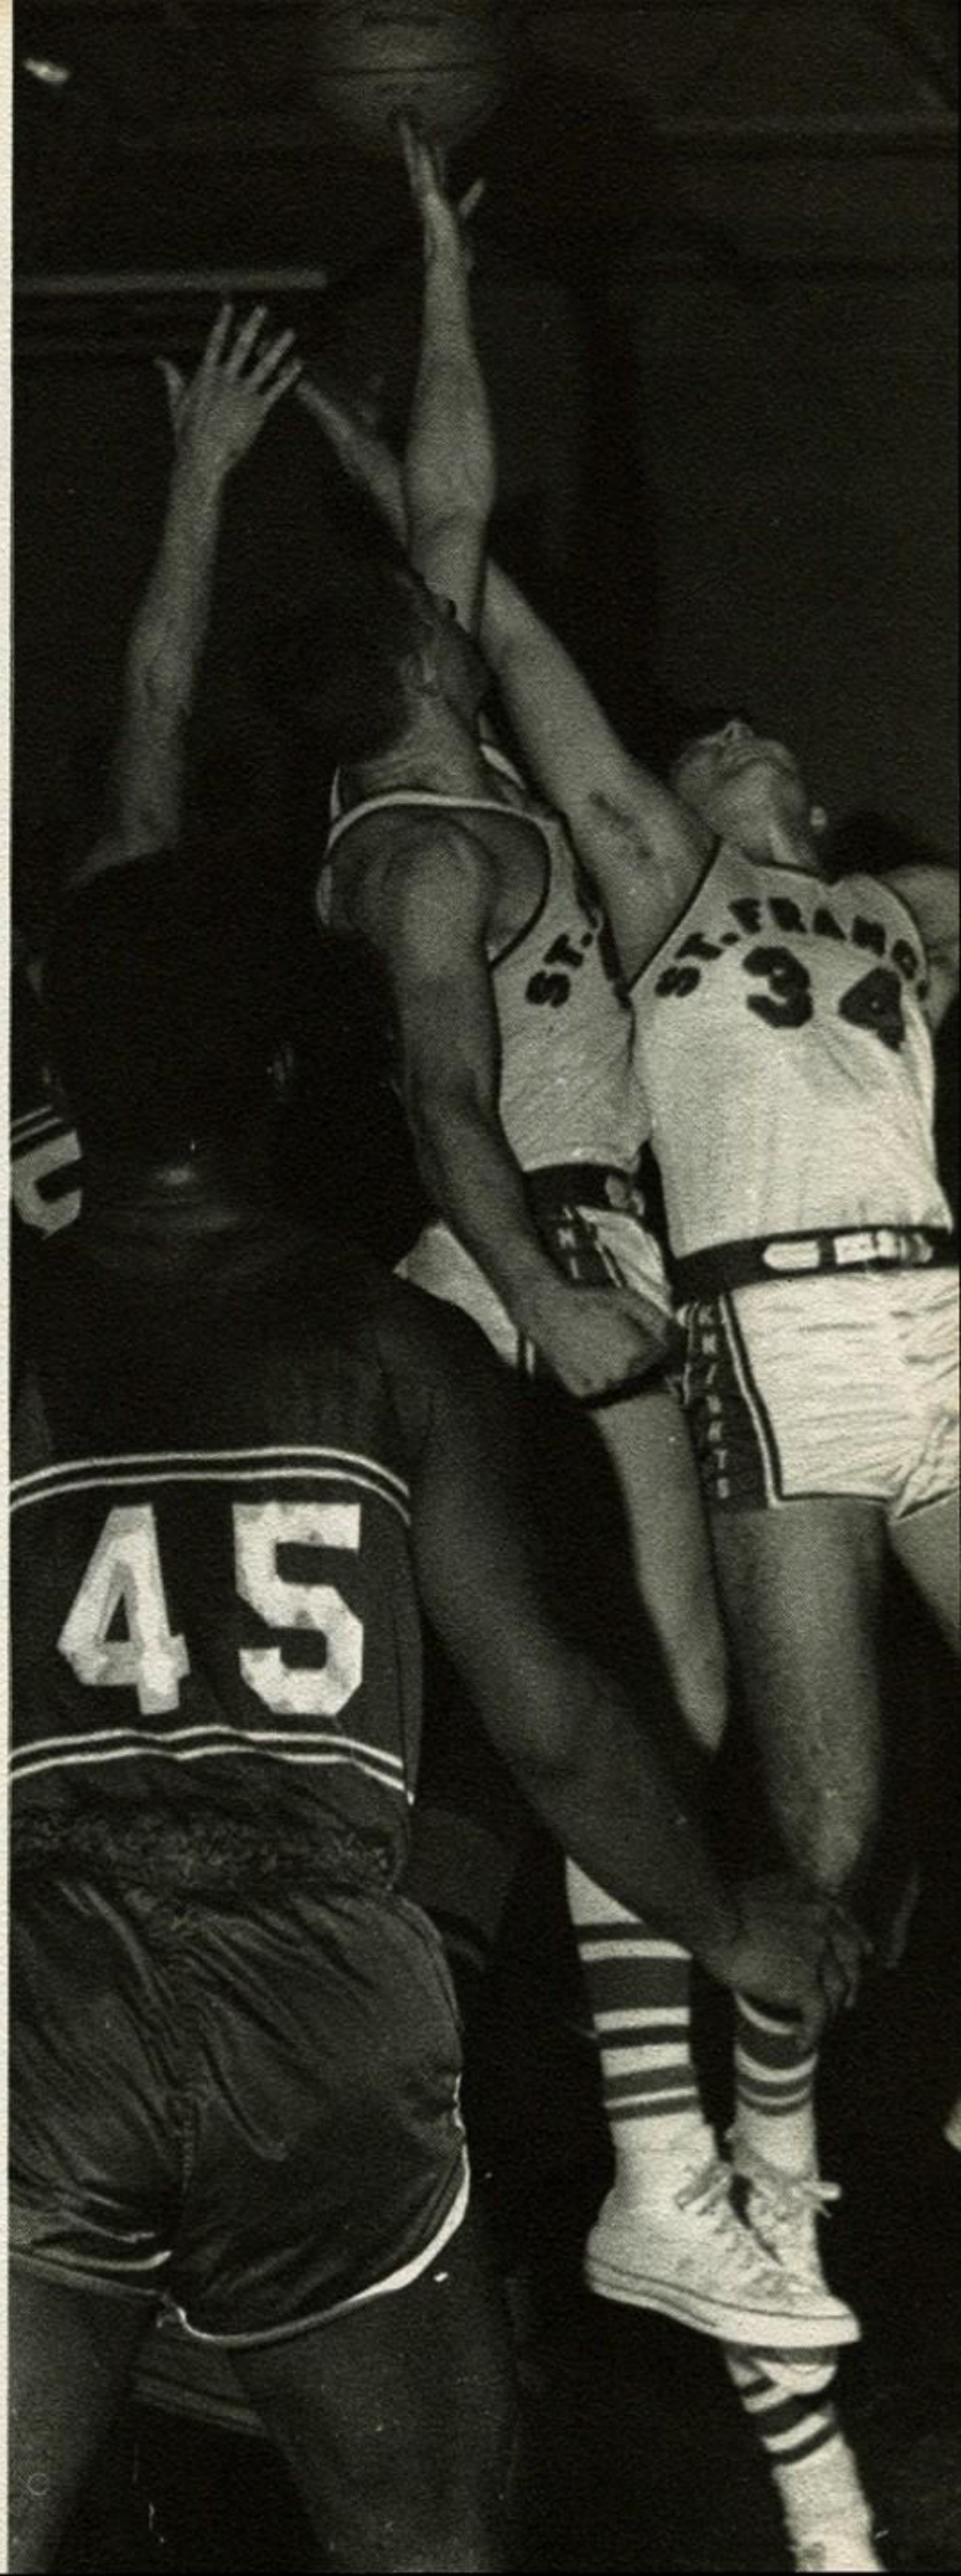
Like Moses, he stammers,
Like Jonas, he would escape,
Like Jeremias, he feels too young.
Yet, to each the summons comes:
Speak!



I SHALL PUT MY WORD IN YOUR MOUTH

He took bread and He took wine.
He blessed them and then He said
This is My Body
This is My Blood
As often as you do this
I am with you
To give you My sacrifice
And everything within the sacrifice,
My generosity in giving when it hurts
My perseverance in the struggle when opposed
My holding on to My Father in every situation
My obedience to the Father in all things
My courage to go on despite rejection
My joy in the face of difficulty
My love for the world
My concern for others
Myself.
This is what I offer you.
This is my gift.
Take and eat
And as often as you do this
I am with you.
Bring this gift
to your classes, your dances, your rallies, your contests,
to your homes, to your work to your joy, dejection, doubts, difficulties and struggles.
Bring this gift
To the ends of the earth.

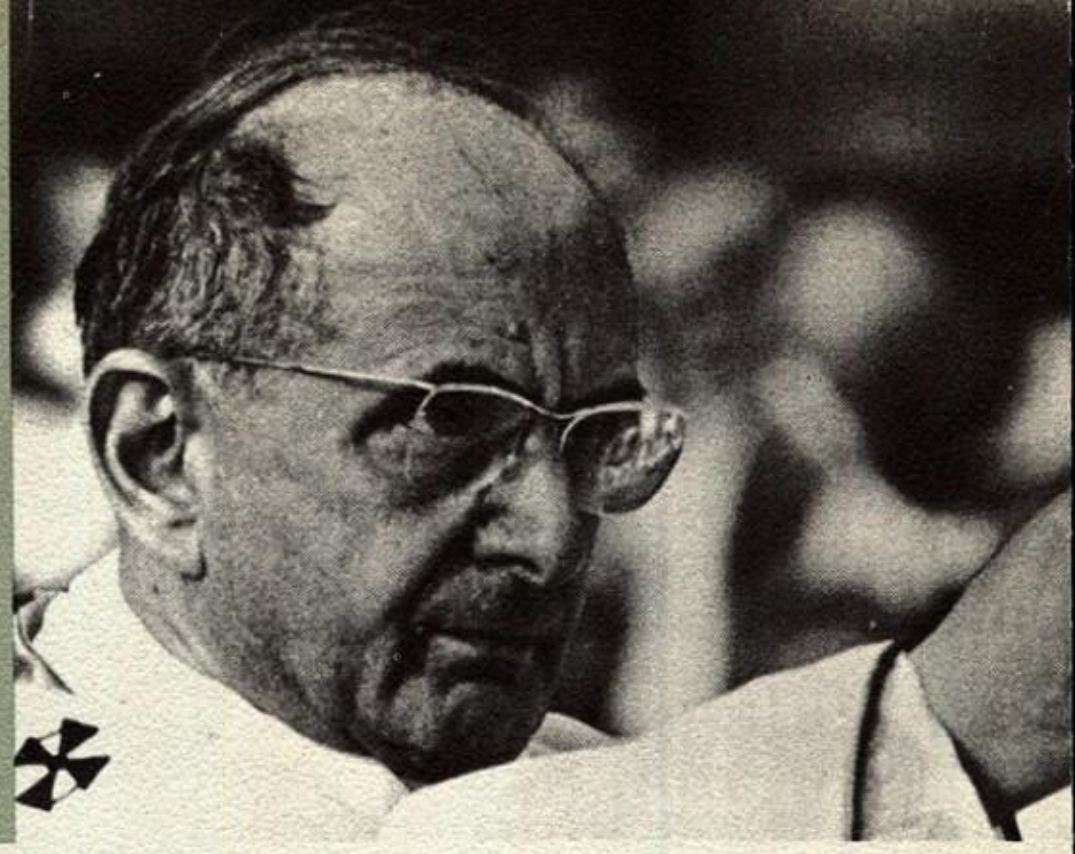
The Very Reverend William J. Ward, O.S.F.S., Provincial of the Western Province of Oblates.



YOUR ELDERS SHALL

What brings a dream into reality is action born of the spirit.
And when that dream is built upon the deepest reality,
the very center of all being,
Then the action must be born of the Spirit Himself.
When He acts within men, He gives a spirit of dedication
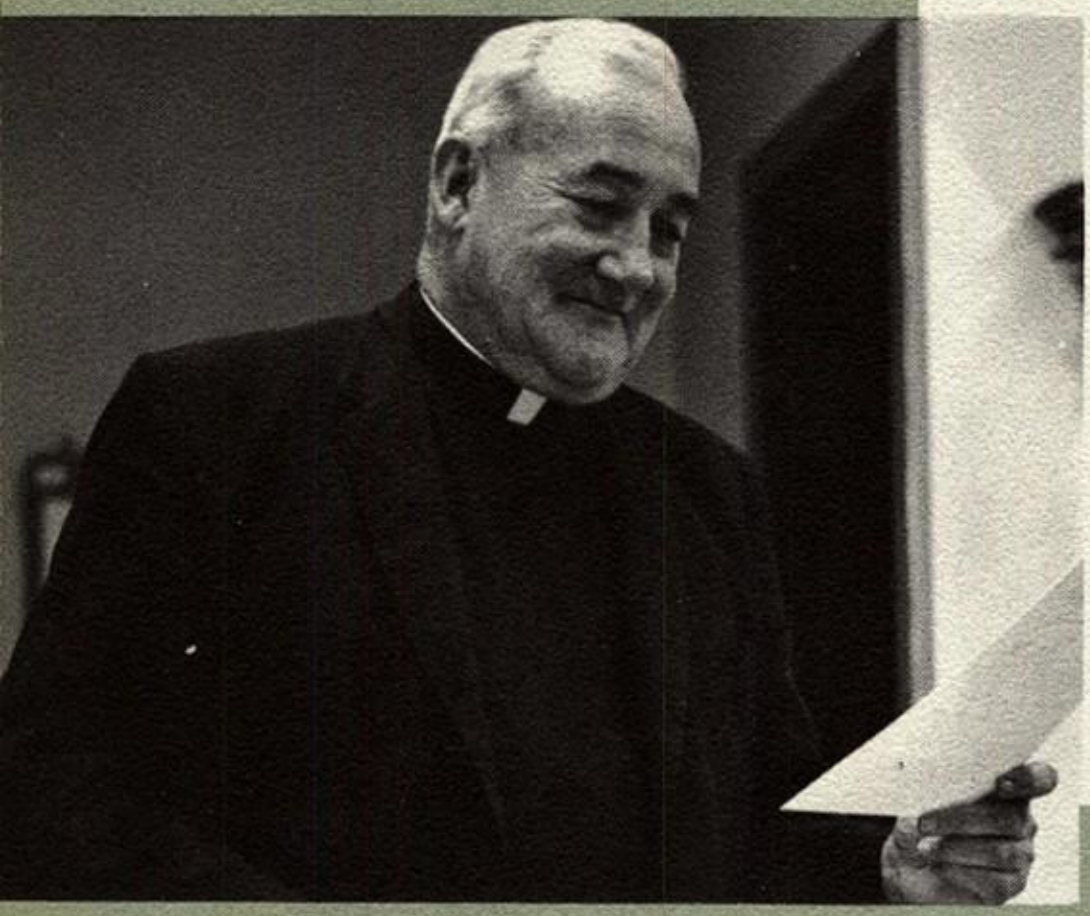
a spirit of sacrifice
a spirit of hope
a spirit of prayer.



Father George Shugrue, O.S.F.S., Principal.

Father Robert Heal, O.S.F.S., Assistant Principal.

Pope Paul VI, spiritual leader in a troubled world.

The Most Reverend George J. Rhehring, D.D., Bishop of Toledo.

DREAM DREAMS

He is a living Spirit who acts in living men — human people who struggle to unite their spirit with His.
He acts through our parents.
He acts through those in whom our parents have placed a trust, Oblates, men offered to the Spirit
for us,
That we might learn the wisdom of offering ourselves to the Spirit for others.

The family of Father Herkert, his Oblate confreres, local clergy and religious join friends and students from St. Francis and Detroit Salesian in a concelebrated Mass commending him to Christ.

Requiem Mass Commemorates Father Herkert

His class notes, last dated November 14, indicates he was an instructor. A discarded envelope refers to him as educational director. The title on his confessional name-card calls him Father. All of our records agree: he had shared our lives, and the day of his death was an ordinary day. He had spent that last day as simply as he had spent his life, building a vision of a world of God and man. At four o'clock in the afternoon, Father Charles Herkert found that vision face to face.

His life was one of dedication to the service of others: in his ministry as an Oblate priest, in his pursuit of scholarship as a Doctor of Classical Languages, in his leadership as educator, in his availability as a man.

Twenty-five years of his life were dedicated to the priesthood of Christ. After ordination he earned his doctorate in the Classical Languages from the University of Pennsylvania. Father first came to Toledo in 1955 with the original faculty for St. Francis, and he was instrumental in starting the band. He then taught in the Oblate novitiate until his appointment as principal of Detroit Salesian. Father returned to Toledo in 1966 as the Director of Education for the newly formed western Province of Oblates. After 51 years, the candle of his life was consumed.

YOUR YOUNG MEN SHALL HAVE

Perhaps there is no such thing as a Christian education Any more than there is a Christian mathematics or a Christian chemistry.
And yet . . .
there is a way of doing a thing with a completeness that differs from the completeness of proving a trignometric identity.
It is the completeness a man has when he sees the vision
as an offered gift, and in gratitude he accepts completely.
Christian education, then, includes every facet of the human endeavor which has its beginning, center, and completion in the gift through Whom all things were made.
What is different about us at St. Francis is that we see things this way.

St. Francis Leads City

Each star has its own brilliance, but the northern star appears more fixed in the firmament than any other. St. Francis de Sales was founded to be such a star. Last Spring the Junior Class entered competition with 17,500 other schools across the country in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. This program, initiated in 1955 and supported by funds from the Ford Foundation, is designed to measure the student's ability to use what he has learned, to think critically, and to apply factual information to the solution of problems in mathematics, social studies readings, natural sciences readings, English usage and verbal ability.

The semifinalists are selected in such a way as to permit final choices from a group of able students from every section of the nation upon a standard testing service. The National Achievement Test was established in 1966 by the Ford Foundation for outstanding senior students.

The October Convocation honored the intellectual achievement of the semifinalists and the commended students. Realizing that the work accomplished at St. Francis is but part of the educational process, the student body commemorated the work of pastors and former teachers. Most especially, the school honored the work of the parents whose very lives teach the most enduring values to be learned.

Father William Fisher, Senior Class Moderator, extends his congratulations to National Merit and National Achievement Semi-Finalists, Ray Bailey, Charles Benda, David Boyer, Michael Clark, Mark DeNies, Stephen Noe, Eric Reger, Joseph Sheahan, and James Taylor.

Haus Overbach in Germany is another school conducted by the Oblates. Tom Heferle, Denny Metzger, Pete Dziad, and Mark Grant take a break between classes to welcome Spring.

This is the charming old town of Annecy deep in the Alps of Upper Savoy. Here the ancient and the ultra-modern stand side by side. St. Francis de Sales is the most famous citizen of Annecy and one can retrace the steps of this illustrious saint and doctor of the Church by walking through this quaint old town.

The magnificent Basilica of St. Francis de Sales were repose the bodies of our patron and St. Jane de Chantal dominates the city and the surrounding countryside and its picturesque towns.

Situated on the beautiful lake of the same name, Annecy is a popular French summer resort. In the winter the entouring mountains provide many delightful ski slopes. Chamonix and Saint Gervais are practically speaking only a stone's throw away.

However, the basic reason for choosing Annecy as the site for our Exchange Program was because here the French Oblates of St. Francis de Sales conduct an excellent school. Ecole Saint Michel has the reputation of being one of the finest private schools in France. Being taught by Oblates would also insure continuity in their education and provide the proper care and supervision which young boys need. The Program has proved a success, and the ten boys participating have had a wonderful and fruitful experience. Their replacements are looking forward to next year.

Education: Primarily a Privilege

Ultimately a Necessity

Education is ultimately limited to those who are intent upon learning. In a society which has decided upon a governmental process of self-determination, the values to be preserved are too precious, the dangers inherent in the system are too imminent, and the well-being of the structure is too precarious to entrust the heritage to anyone whose values are relative only to himself. If the privilege of possessing this heritage is to remain, it is necessary that the educational process dispose the student to accept the pursuit of truth as a worthy endeavor, and to demand that nothing less than total values be offered to him.

Every generation has had the immense burden of improving itself; ours is the first generation with the unique privilege of saving itself from annihilation. Ours is the generation that finds itself enmeshed in a complexity of social, political, and economic problems for which we see no solution. Ours is the generation that must pay for the mistakes of the past . . . our fathers ate sour grapes and our teeth are on edge. And yet, they left us one thing, one glorious dignity that cannot be usurped unless we relinquish it, and that is the gift of freedom.

It is a freedom freely granted to the world two thousand years ago. It was faith in this freedom that founded our nation, but it is a freedom we compromise at every turn. If we, in the scientific pursuit of the mysteries of the universe, equate success with convenience and gadgetry, if progress means streamlining, if achievement becomes worship of the test tube and the calculator, or if well-being is conceived of in terms of longer lasting butane lighters and more effective deodorants, then we will be forced to accept the consequences of our materialism; the witness of history is too emphatic to think otherwise. Or if, in the arts, we create only what is pleasing to the senses, or if our values are limited only to the entertaining, then we will become a prey to the eloquence of every speaker, and a slave to every passing emotion. We will lose every vestige of freedom; it will be freely relinquished.

What preserves the freedom we cherish? The answer was contained in the very last words penned by Francis de Sales: "Humility! Humility! Humility!" Humility before God, in the recognition of the immutability and objectivity of truth. As no man in his right mind would hold that two and two are more than four, so no man who is in love with truth would hold that good can come from evil. Truth, justice, and respect for God's sovereignty must be recognized and proclaimed. This is the foundation for the permanence of freedom. Then, humility towards neighbor, in the recognition of his dignity and right to be accounted for by us. Finally, humility towards oneself, in the recognition of a constant need to renovate and adapt; this disposes us for openness towards God and man. And it is in this openness that we find authentic freedom.

1567-1967: Four Centuries of Salesian Tradition

Francis de Sales taught a way of life called "devout humanism" which means taking the best of one's personality and developing it in imitation of Christ, especially under the aspects of His kindness and generous conformity with God's will at every minute. As such, it is a deep tradition we follow here at St. Francis, for it enables us to explore every facet of humanity.

Unlike a news magazine, man cannot compartmentalize his life into convenient categories like learning, religion, social development, and entertainment. The complete man works as a unified experience or he does not work at all. The complete man is a leader; he is not always a genius, and his field of leadership may be limited, but his sense of direction is recognized. Here are a few current examples of St. Francis graduates who are filling leadership roles in colleges: Jim Fish, president of the student body at Notre Dame; Tim O'Reilly, Evans Scholar "Leader of the Year"; Fred Devlin, captain of the Cornell football team; Pat Nally, dean of men at Xavier University; Ron Stoll, midshipman lieutenant commander, Naval Academy; Terry Horrigan, president of the student body at Toledo University; Art Johnson, editor of Holy Cross student newspaper; John Getz, editor of the Xavier University newspaper.

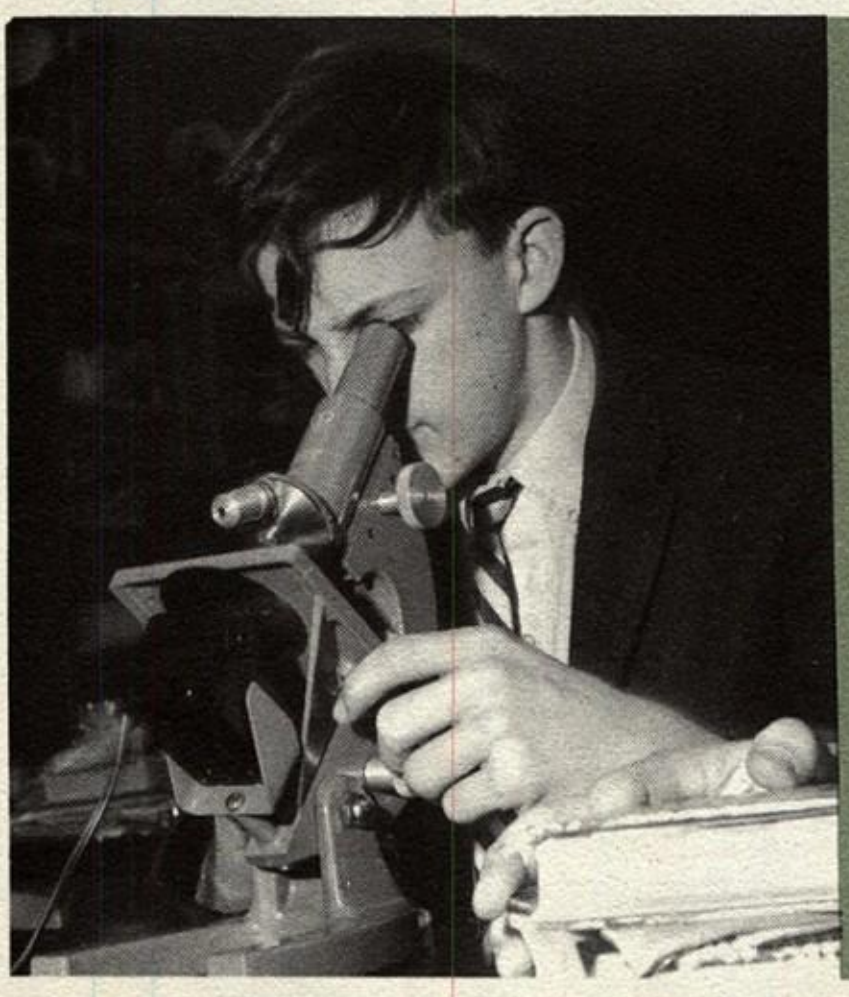
The Object of Truth: Reality

Symbolic patterns

mirror reality

Fr. Cryan indicates how the raised hand can be a sign of "peace" or "cease". In coming to appreciate the literary genres, it is necessary to understand the use of signs and symbolic patterns as man's attempt to explain his world; in coming to communicate effectively and eloquently, it is necessary to understand significant sentence structure.

Tom Duffy notes the patterns of cellular activity; the world becomes mirrored in the microcosm.



Before discussing their findings, John Sobczak and Jim Gladdish engage in observing a pulmonary phenomenon.

The daily sit-in before school protested the arrival of the faculty on their way to the cafeteria for a cup of coffee before the first class. It also gave the sophomores time to get in a few more minutes of reading. John Fell seems singularly amused by another one of those hilarious little anecdotes Caesar used to punctuate his Gallic Wars.

A good job well done: Hugh Smith and Pat Campbell study a living heart of a chicken embryo in one of the many biology experiments Coach Sevenich directed.

Homecoming Weekend Headlines

Year's Activities

A generation with vision must be well versed in all phases of education: spiritual, physical and social as well as intellectual. Knight life embraces all of these facets, each of which is essential to personality development. In the past year, the halls of Saint Francis de Sales have been a beehive of activity before events of every imaginable nature.

Headlining the list of Fall events was the carefully planned Homecoming. For five days beginning Monday, September 19, an air of anxiety permeated the school's corridors as the annual grid clash with Central approached. Weekend activities were off to an optimistic start as student and their dates enjoyed the music of Chuck McDaniels and his orchestra at the Homecoming Dance Friday night. On Sunday morning the students prepared for a parade down Bancroft; its destination — the Glass Bowl.

The success of these events, which can be attributed to a well organized Student Council under the capable leadership of Father Kelly, provided the setting for a perfect climax to a perfect week, the coveted victory over our traditional opponent.

Knights' Band

Band activities are a year-round project. The practices for the half-time shows given at football games begin in the summer months. When school begins, the practices start for the plays, concerts, and other activities. The members work for an hour after school, usually longer. In addition, many lunch and study periods are sacrificed for the sake of musical excellence.

One of the satisfactions the band has is its ability to observe marked improvement as the year progresses. Under the able leadership and direction of Mr. Edward Zapletal, and moderated by Father Diekman's constant supervision, the band continues to grow in size and caliber. Like many other school activities, the band is not looking for its own satisfaction. The pep rallies' band at the basketball games were worthy of everyone's appreciation. The band gave concerts at Christmas, in the spring, and at the Golden Knight Ball.

The Band Boosters raised $1300 to send the band on tour to Washington and Alexandria, Virginia, during the Easter holidays. Their constant backing has encouraged their sons' endeavors.

Dick Amborski, Ken Piorkowski, and Dana Benore sound the golden horns in one of Mr. Zapletal's special arrangements at the annual Christmas Concert given for friends of the school.

Jerry Jendrzak leads off the percussion section during an autumn practice. The gutty ardor of the drums kept the marching band in step and the crowds in spirit.

Starting to pick up to clear out for the victory march at the DeVilbiss game, the band members begin turning their hats backward, the traditional sign of victory.

'You Can't Take It With You'

Wins Audience Response

Twenty-fifth year for Hart-Kaufman Comedy

Colonel Kolenkov (Tom Helfrich) gets a goatee trim from Fr. Marran minutes before show.

On December 7th and 8th long hours of practice culminated in the opening of the curtain on a Moss Hart and George Kaufman comedy, You Can't Take It With You. Not to be outdone by previous success, Father Marran directed his thespians through their roles until the audience could feel at home in the parlor of the world's most bizarre family.

Act I began; the time became the late 30's; the scene, the home of Martin Vanderhof, his family, and house guests who might visit for ten years at a time. Just around the corner from Columbia University, the house was the scene for as much expressive activity as you could find in the shadow of liberal education, snake collecting and explosives manufacturing being the least extravagant. The comedy climaxed in the arrest of the household on charges of subversive activity and tax evasion. Things looked dismal for the budding romance between Alice and her fiance, Tony Kirby, since Tony's parents, prominent socialites, happened to be in the house at the time of the arrest. Later, officials learned that the Marxist slogans circulated from the house were mere exercises in printing, and that Vanderhof could not pay taxes since his name was legally buried with a nameless guest who came to dinner. After twenty-five years the social significance of the play has changed, but the hilarity has perdured.

Mrs. Sycamore (Peggy Hanus) welcomes Tony Kirby (Steve Stanford) to the household.

"And this," explains Mrs. Sycamore, "is my father who hasn't paid any taxes in years." Internal Revenue Agent (Ray Bailey) stares in perplexity at the family that refuses to take life too seriously.

LEFT: Essie Carmichael (Cathy Baratta) curtsies to the Russian Countess who is a short order waitress (Barb Szkutnik). RIGHT: After years of wedded blitz in a household that manufactures explosives, Mr. Sycamore (John Mennitt) is astounded by wife's logic.

Miss Catherine Burnett is the newest addition to the St. Francis faculty. She is an instructor in speech.

Coaching give direction; it also brings amusement.

Speech and Drama Department Moves into Second Season

Perennial favorite to hit the stage in spring

Father Marren and Student-Teacher, Miss Catherine Burnett, have taken one of the "most performed plays" from the legitimate stage as the spring drama project of the speech department. This masterpiece of mystery-comedy is a story of two sweet old ladies who bake cookies for the kiddies and make their own elderberry wine for homeless old gentlemen "with just a dash of arsenic." When the story begins, their score is twelve, but that is not counting the body under the window seat. Assisting in the quiet parties are two nephews, one of whom thinking himto be Teddy Roosevelt is digging the Panama Canal in the basement in convenient six by foot sections. A perrenial favorite on the high school stage, Arsenic and Old Lace is going through all of the production throes that make high school dramatics memorable, spring colds and getting the use of the gym for practices and interrupting the rehearsals for exams.

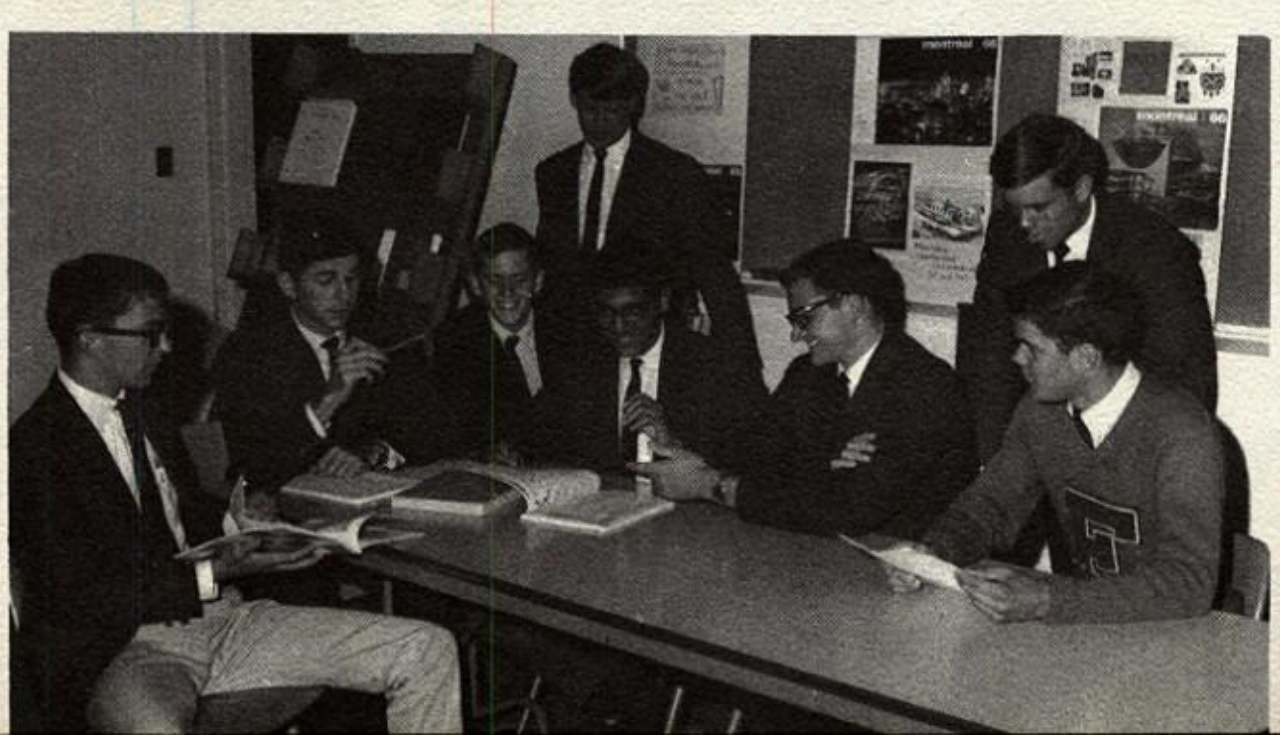
THE GERMAN CLUB offered the students and the friends of St. Francis a concert at the intermission of the band concert during the Christmas holidays. Tom Detzer leads the choral group in traditional melodies before moving into one of the less familiar student drinking songs of Bavaria.



THE FRENCH CLUB is sponsoring a trip to Expo 67 in the late spring. Mr. Mignault listens to Ray Tarscha's itinerary suggestions before reminding him that they are not going to be spending a month in Canada. The rules for qualifying for the trip include the student's being present at every club meeting and being able to ask a person for a crust of petit pan if he gets lost.

Activities "67"

New charters and new projects are offered to the school

At Saint Francis great emphasis is placed on the acquisition and the retention of knowledge; however, and integral part of our educational process is the application of newly acquired knowledge. For this reason, in addition to academic and athletic endeavors, there are student organizations designed to improve the student socially and to make him more knowledgeable in the field of his interest. Such activities not only extend his knowledge in a particular field, but also help the student to develop responsibility and a spirit of self-sacrifice in addition to providing an opportunity to demonstrate leadership abilities.

Of these clubs, the only one to which a member must be elected is the Student Council on School Affairs. This organization, supervised by Fr. Kelly, acts as mediator between the student body and the administrators of the school. The other clubs include the French Club, moderated by Mr. Louis Mignault; the German Club, led by Fr. Neuman; Mu Alpha Theta, a mathematics club organized by Fr. Barkenquest; and the Science Clubs directed by Fr. Mossett.

The opening day of the French Club for a while looked like opening of French Parliament. Enthusiasm was for the Expo 67 project.

JUNIOR SCIENCE AND HUMANITIES SYMPOSIUM. The first such symposium was held in Dana Auditorium at the University of Toledo on Jan. 7. The program featured guest lectures as well as papers presented by nine high school students on scientific work they had initiated. St. Francis was represented by Mike Anderson, Dick Sylvester, Leon LaPointe and Rick Kearns. Tours are planned for Sun Oil, Owens Illinois Technical Center, Surface Combustion Division of Midland-Ross Corp., the Institute of Medical Research, and Three laboratories at Toledo University.

THE ASTRONOMY CLUB was begun this year by Mike Gray. Present at the first meeting were Dick Sylvester, Mike Grey, John Scheur, and Gene Madden. Second row: Steve Sutton, Ken Kazmierczak, Phil Sutton, and Doug Byerly.

What are little girls made of? Apparently punch and tea cookies. The girls from the area academies were invited to take part in the Chappuis Style Show, the major fund-raising event the ladies sponsored. The mothers also did a lot of foot work in getting door prizes and refreshments for Funarama.

Chappuis and Brisson

The Golden Knight Ball is the major fund-raising event of the year. Father Shugrue greets Coach Harshman and his charming wife as they enter the exhibit hall at the Sports Arena. Parents and friends made the GKB possible.

The lights lowered, the curtains opened, and the stage became a massive picture frame for tableaus of "The Four Seasons." The event was the Chappuis Style Show.

The Chappuis Society and the Brisson Association are organizations of student and alumni parents. They are the right arm of the school in backing various projects. In their own right they provide opportunity for the parents to become acquainted through singleness of purpose: the mutual hope in their sons' development.

Fr. Shugrue is the moderator for both associations. Mrs. Marjorie Cowell is the Chappuis president. Fr. Marran's talents were enlisted for the annual style show, an appreciated success. Another project was a dinner held on the feast of St. Francis for the faculty. The many hours of work were rewarded with moments of levity. The year's programming closed with the Day of Recollection.

The Brisson Association is an organization whose activities seem never to cease. It is directed by Mr. Don O'Brien. Funarama, Golden Knight Ball, Freshmen and College Nights, the DeVilbiss and Central smokers, and the "Fat Fathers' Physical Fitness Program" are just a few of the activities which Brisson sponsors. Enlisting the help, ingenuity, and time of untold numbers of Dads and unsung heroes, this association uses its unrelenting energies to assist the Oblates in furthering Catholic education in Toledo. When students pass the Brisson office and see men like Mr. Comes constantly working, they know a trust has been placed in them. They are expected to live up to it.

Guests pause as Peter Duchin's music and warmth radiates throughout the GKB.

Place a Trust in their Sons

It shall not have been placed in vain

The men of Brisson begin the annual picnic at Camp De Sales with a field Mass celebrated by Father Shugrue.

From out of the Paper Jungle the Accolade Emerges

Happiness is finishing a yearbook. Every negative approved, dusted, and printed brings Fr. Cryan closer to the completion of the project.

When Fr. Cryan returned to his home town, he found a yearbook room waiting, and a strong tradition of journalistic excellence which was established by Fr. Earley. The first response to his call for help came from the photographers, from whom Pete Ujvagi was named Editor-in-Chief, layout designer, and head photographer.

Droll comments like, "The idea is good; let's use film the next time," and "I think I've seen that cutline in a primer," gradually became more enthusiastic as the year wore on. When the need to speed up the pace of production became imperative, students like Jack McMillan and Tim Cichoki stopped by to offer their time and abilities for copy writing on matters with which they were conversant. This began the practice of having a fluid staff of students knowledgeable in their respective activities. It made the Accolade a school project; it also made it possible.

To the great joy of Kodak stock-holders, the yearbook was accomplished by neophytes. During one of the many Saturday sessions, John Domalski casts a discerning eye on apprentice Larry Bialorucki's work.

Early in the journalistic year, Mr. and Mrs. Suprunowicz from Modern Yearbook Company visited St. Francis to give pointers to the new staff. Hoping to match the excellence of past volumes, Pete Schramm, Fr. Cryan, Mike Skowronek, Bob Moore, and Steve Stanford listen and watch as Mrs. Lorraine Suprunowicz shows slides.

During the daily panic hour, Pete Ujvagi comes up with a workable solution for fitting a picture into an allotted space.

Deep in the arduous work of copy writing, Tom Gorski (below) and Ross Turner (above) try to capture the spirit of the school as found in recorded events.

The count-down till deadline starts in mild panic before progressing to frenzied mania.

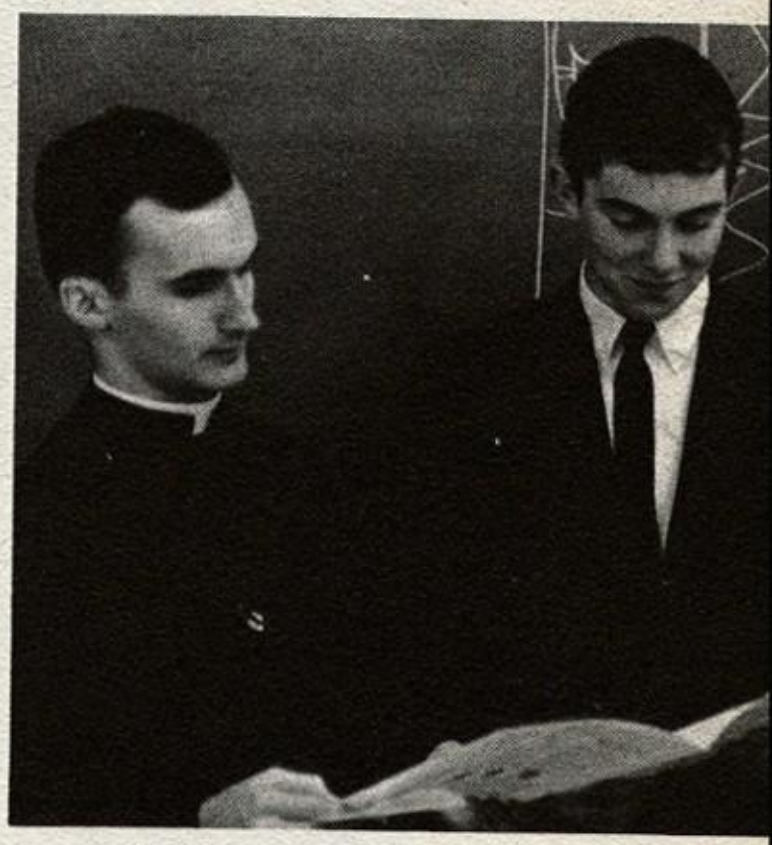
Gary Jeziorowski, a photo hug himself, takes no mean interest in Pete's camera. The success of the newspaper often hinged on complete photo coverage.

Mike Angevine works on the final draft of an article, the final step in "putting the paper to bed."

The Voice of the Student

Speaks through the Lance

The fact that the school newspaper, The Lance, has been receiving awards for several years does not account for its literary excellence, nor does the fact that many schools have begun to imitate our tabloid format. The Lance's contribution to the school is that it is a voice of the student body. The moderator's job is to see to it that it gets published when the students want to publish it, that the paper's copy is coherent, and that all of the articles are in good taste. The rest is the work of the students. They are free to change the format, to determine the emphasis, and to decide the attitude. The Lance is edited by Gary Jeziorowski. Editorial Editor is Tim Loughman. The sports editing was handled by Steve Stanford and Mark Kapel. Pete Ujvagi managed the photography and Vince Peters the art work. Ross Turner took care of the exchange department and the book work. Staff Reporters were Tom Flannigan, Tom Gorski, Jim Hoffman, Steve Noe, John Gallagher, Barry Alcock, Bob Deak, Jim Mertes, Bill Smitley, Mike Filipiak, Joe Extejet, Phil Sutton, Steve Sutton, and Gary Jankowski. The Rev. Mr. Timothy Sheehan moderated the publication aided by Rev. Mr. Hannigan.



In one of his less argumentive moments, Tim Loughman silently waits for Mr. Sheehan's approval of an editorial.

Rev. Mr. Sheehan, O.S.F.S. get a chuckle from something that Pete and Gary show him—probably the latest editorial from the Berkeley flash.

I WILL GIVE YOU STRENGTH TO

The tortuous convolutions and the hesitant beginnings of humanity's groping movement towards the great and deep things of life involve trial and error, gain and loss, conquest and set-back, discouragement, and the willingness to try again.
Humanity's upward movement is not poured into a man upon maturity.
It has its own hesitant beginnings.
It is slowly realized.
It begins
in matters of little consequence in the cheer of a crowd in words of encouragement in the silence of defeat.
The student sees his school on the field.
He sees humanity.
He sees himself.

All-Star Backfield

Sparks Knight Defense

On September 9, 1966, Coach Mattingly and his varsity football squad began their long march to the City Title at Rogers Stadium against the Scott Bulldogs. What Scott saw was the most impenetrable defense Toledo has ever known, and the most explosive offense ever fielded by a Northwestern Ohio school. Led by All-City fullback Marty Huff, the team cashed in its long hours of grueling practice for the first undefeated, untied season in the history of St. Francis.

Eight other teams shared the field with the Knights, and each one went down in humiliating defeat. Waite, Central, Macomber, DeVilbiss, Bowsher, Whitmer, Cardinal Stritch, and Woodward scored a grand total of 28 points against the Red-and-Blue as six opponents were shutout by the tenacious Knight defense.

Undoubtedly, the sweetest of all victories came in the Homecoming Game against arch-rival Central as the Knights trounced the Irish, 26-0, and thereby maintained possession of the coveted Irish Knight. Central, which used to have a knack for spoiling good seasons, was never even a threat in this year's contest.

1966 was the year of the first City Championship game. St. Francis, which had already proven itself worthy of the title by its sensational record, had to put the championship on the line in the Thanksgiving Day game. DeVilbiss was the pretender to the throne, and that was quickly resolved by a 47-6 whipping of the Tigers.

Individual honors were bestowed to St. Francis standouts: Marty Huff, Jim Smythe, Bernie Reinhart, Tom Schlageter, and Doug Avery as they received berths on the All-City team. These and many others helped to successfully defend the title for St. Francis.

JVs Earn Share in City Title

The 1966 Junior Varsity ended a spectacular season with an 8-1 record and extended coach Joe Sevenich's record at St. Francis to 14-3. The Light-Knights finished on top in the J.V. City League race.

St. John's was the first opponent for the Lightweights and the Knights emerged the victors in recording their first win over the boys from Airport High. In what was probably the Reserve's toughest game, arch-rival St. John's scored only once to S.F.S.'s two tallies.

Next on the chopping block was Woodward, who was last year's City Champs. The Lightweights proved that they were boss in the C.L. by trouncing the Polar Bears, 22-0.

Central, Macomber, DeVilbiss, Libbey, Bowsher, and Start scored a grand total of six points against the City Champs. All but Macomber were shutout.

The only mar on the record was a 20-14 loss to Libbey. Jim Hodulik and Henry Geha scored for the Knights in a losing cause.

Next year's varsity chances for the title are bright with the addition of this fine team.

Hustle and Heart Make Up for Height

Despite exasperating football practice, three senior members of the varsity squad devoted their energies to enervating basketball practice. The seven seniors on the year's roundball team were John Thomas, Joe Koren, Don Harbaugh, Marty Huff, Jim Faught, Tom Galloway, and Bob Wilczynski who was unable to play during the season because of an ankle injury.

Coach Jim Kubacki started the team on a victory march with five straight wins. The Libbey game, 57-53, was the first loss. After collecting themselves, the team again began a new winning streak by defeating Bowsher 72-53, and by making a magnificent showing at the Knights' Invitational Tournament held in the Sports Arena, December 29 and 30. After defeating Rogers, 59-46, they completed the tournament by shelving Canton McKinley 69-60. John Thomas received MVP honors; and Joe Koren, a place on the All-Tournament Team.

After trouncing Woodward on the following Friday, the Knights went on to defeat the Whitmer Panthers 66-54. The team ran up another victory over Waite before taking a second defeat at the hands of Start, and a third from Central in a heated battle that ended in a 32-46 loss.

Macomber, DeVilbiss, and Scott fell under the Mighty Knights as they still rolled on. Again, however, the Libbey Cowboys provided another obstacle. Despite the four City-League losses, the Knights finished in a tie for third place.

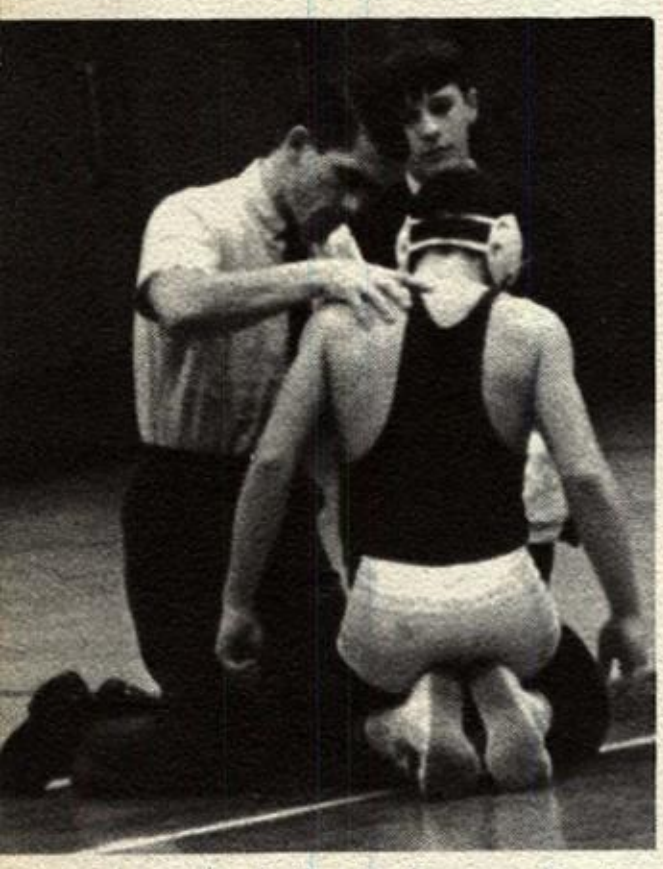
Wrestlers Win

62nd Straight Dual Meet

en route to district championship



Joe Zychowicz listens to Coach Leffler as Mgr. Jim Comiskey assists during break in the match with Scott.

For the sixth consecutive year, Coach Leffler's matmen have dominated wrestling in Northwestern Ohio. Convincing wins over Central, DeVilbis, and Sylvania, plus a hard fought decision over district runner-up Macomber, enabled our team to streak to its 62nd straight dual meet victory and capture the 16th Catholic Invitational Tournament in Cleveland for the fourth successive year, disposing of the nearest challenger, Columbus. De Sales by 23 points.

After winning their fourth city championship in as many years as in the league, the matmen entered the sectional tournament at Northwood and qualified nine wrestlers for the district meet in Toledo. In a dramatic team effort, seven men advanced to the semi-finals round, and five of these finished in the top four of the district as St. Francis swept to its sixth straight district championship. Andy Huff, 175 lbs., lost his bid for a trip to Columbus in the consolation final and finished fourth in the district. Joe Zychowicz, 122 lbs., placed third in the district; Dennis Toffler, 145 lbs., district runner-up; Jack McMillan, district champion at 133 lbs., went on to finish 2nd in the state; and Mark DeNeis, 138 lbs., district champion.

Special recognition should be given not only to Coach "Doc" Leffler, but also to Assistant Coach Joe Sevenich and Team Moderator Father Barkenquest whose co-ordinated efforts provided St. Francis with another exceptional team.

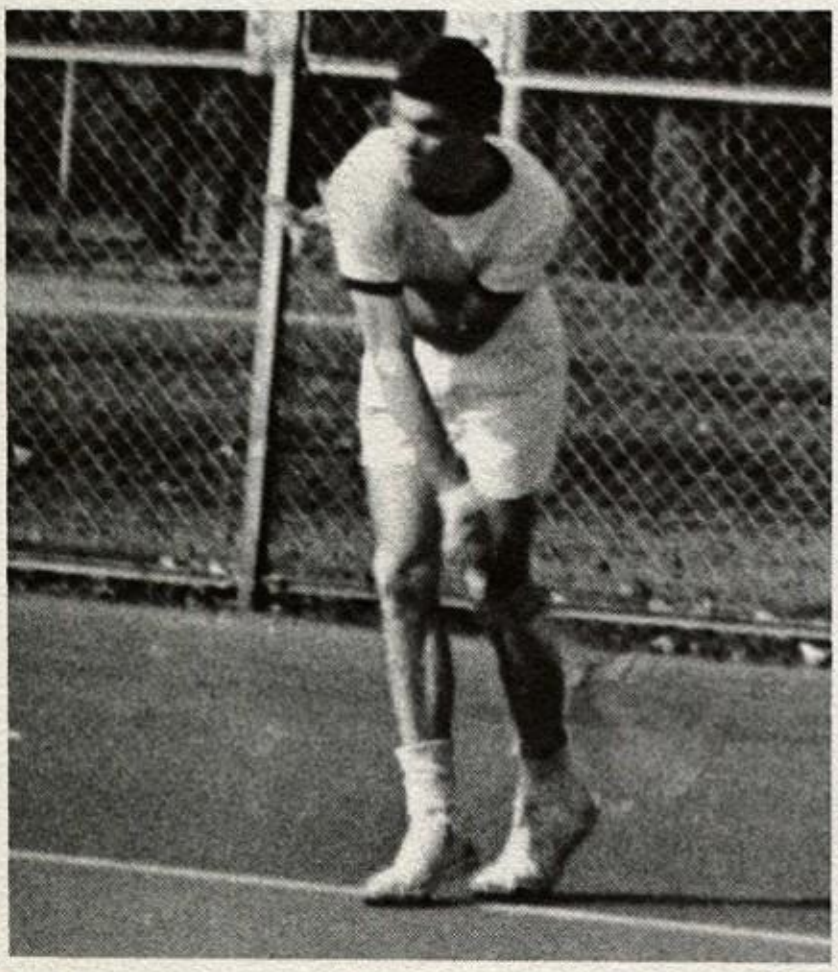
Fr. Ebenhoeh eyes city title



A new coach, a good group of returning lettermen, and probably another city title is all that need be said of this year's tennis team. Father John Ebenhoeh has the job of guiding the team in the defense of the city title. The team's strength rests in a large group of very promising racketmen. Jim Faught, All-City last year, is aiming to repeat that honor, while the Zann brothers, Bob and Greg, look ahead to many victories. Fred Kumor, Phil Johnson, Randy and Rick Whately, and others make up what should prove to be the toughest team in the area.

St. Francis Tankmen Splash Way

400-yard freestyle relay

sets new state record

The St. Francis tankmen are a team without a home; they borrow time from the Catholic Club for practice, and they borrow other teams' pools to defeat their opponents. Three years ago, St. Francis didn't even have a team entered in the district meet, let alone in the state. Things changed radically at St. Francis — and on the state records — when a knowledgeable young coach, Ron Ballatore, came to Toledo from eastern California. Not satisfied with having taken the district championship last year, and placing fifth in the state, Coach Ballatore brought the aqua-team to state championship, new state records, and All American recognition. Coach Ballatore and Moderator Father William Fisher are becoming a legend here at St. Francis for their insistence on scholastic and personality achievement in the team as well as aquatic excellence.

This season, St. Francis outswam eight dual meet opponents before outclassing the 14-team district challengers. It was the first time a team had ever scored 100 points. The natators won six events in Dave Marker and Dan Hylant, and set district records in each victory. Marker won the 200-yard freestyle in 4:53.9 and the 100-yard butterfly in :55.8, both records. Hylant won the 200-yard individual medley relay in 2:10.6 and the 400-yard freestyle in 4:09.6, also both records. Dyke Edwards' :60.3 winning time in the 100-yard backstroke was a record, as was the 3:26.9 timing for the St. Francis freestyle relay quartet.

St. Francis was the first Toledo team ever to win a state swimming title when it overwhelmed last year's champ, Akron Firestone, 171-149½ on March 4. St. Francis, having broken its own records during the qualifications, took four first place titles, and broke the 400-yard freestyle relay record with a 3:19.8 timing.

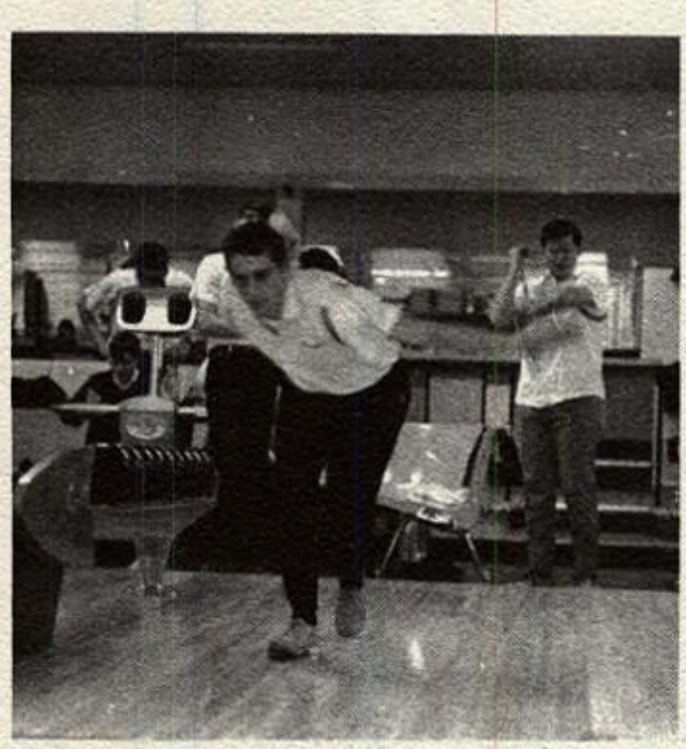
Keglers Defend League Title

Bow to Central in City Tourney



Bob Helminski makes a valiant try for a strike.

The St. Francis National League bowling team successfully defeated its league title, finishing two and a half games ahead of Start with a spectacular record of 47-7. Tim Bublich had the highest average, 186, and was followed by Paul Skowronek, 184; John Guzdanski, 181; Bob Moore, 177; Rick Schmidt, 177; Jim Mertes, 169, and Denny Gugger, 161. Bob Moore had the high game at 238.

The American League finished fast, posting a 33-21 record for third place. Tom Madden led the squad with a 177 average, and was followed by Bob Grebe, 176; Don Schroeder, 167; Jim Decca, 164, and Bob Helminski, 160. The tournament which determined the city championship proved to be a surprising upset for the Knights when the National league lost the first game with a 733; although they won the next two games, they were 15 pins short of the city title.

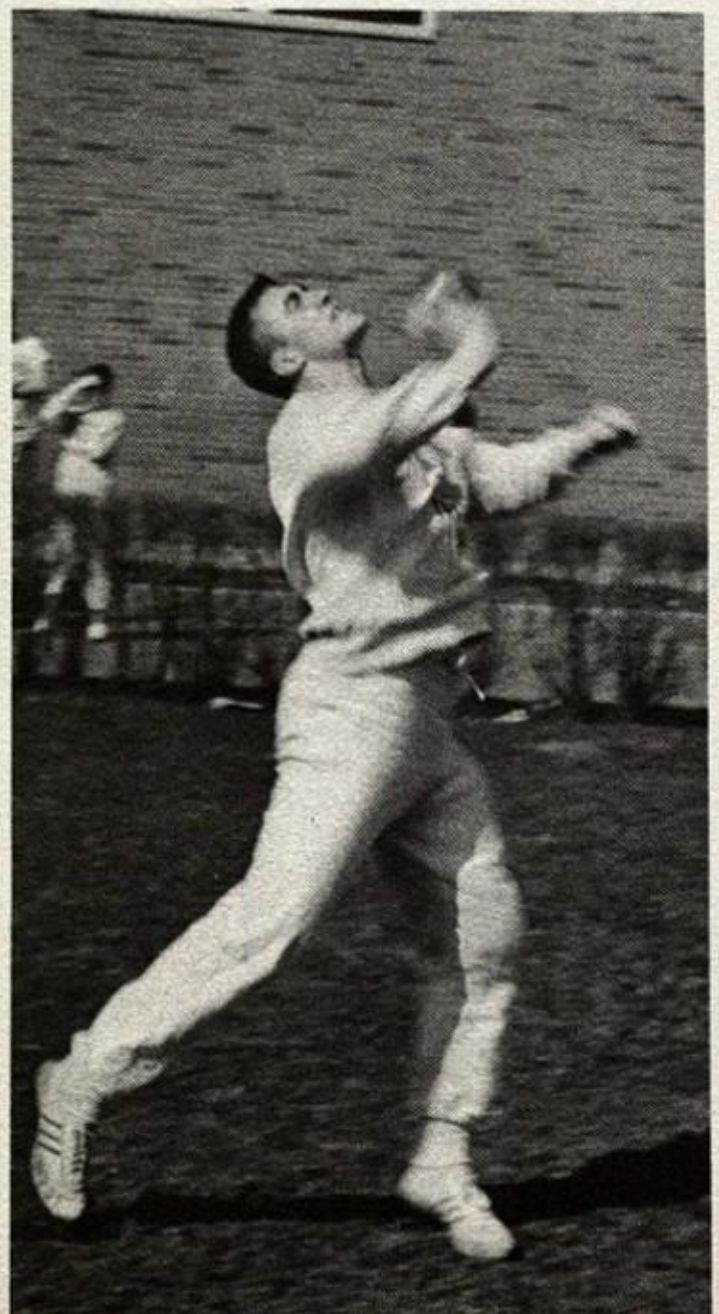
Thinclads Strain to Gain Improvement



This year's track team, under the new direction of Father Joseph Kelly, will be aching to improve on last year's fifth place finish in the city. The field events will once again be the strong point of the team as Marty Huff will win the shot and discus as he has been doing for the past two years. Bernie Reinhart promises many victories in the pole vault as John McGrane and Dan Mouch do in the distances. The only problem seems to be in the sprints, but Coach Kelly is working feverishly to remedy the situation. All in all, it should be a good year for the thinclads.

Golf Team to retain city title

After a very illustrious career which included four straight city titles and five district championships, golf mentor Father Komorowski has retired and replaced very capably by Mr. Karl Feltman. The prospects for this year's team are very bright. There are five lettermen returning, including Bob Moore, an All-City selection last year. Other regulars include Len Chmielewski, John Emmenecker, Rich Schmidt, Dave Chmielewski, John Tscholl, and Mark Spath. The linksters are expected to retain their city title crown with the toughest competition coming from DeVilbiss, and they have a very good chance to win the district.

What is this we hear of people talking without speaking?
of people listening without hearing?
of people walking on streets alone
within the sounds of silence?
Only the generous know how to receive.
Only the affable
learn to communicate.
Only the self possessed
are never alone.
In generosity
towards study and activities,
In the give and take
of exploring personalities,
In the assurance that comes in the humility of learning,
The student listens and speaks.
He shares,
And mends a broken world.

The few minutes of time remaining, always quoted in sports write-ups, usually was twice as long as the entire playing time allotted to the band. As the season wore on and the games moved more quickly to dusk, the field-appearance of the band became increasingly shortened. The band practice, the hours of drilling and the hours of playing, remained the same, however — day after day.

Drawing analogies between human maternity and the maternity of the Church and the school, Father Baraniewicz emphasizes the need for a filial love for and a filial responsibility towards each of these.

"Mindful of its significance, wear this ring with honor . . . Mike Angevine receives his hard earned ring from Father Shugrue and returns to his place a Senior.

The Awarding of Rings:

The levity of the day takes over after the ceremony when Mike Angevine, Jack McMillan, Joe Ludwig, Tim Cichoki, and Ross Turner inspect their newly acquired rings.

Father Fisher intones the Gloria, the hymn of praise and thanksgiving, during the Mass in honor of the Holy Spirit offered with the students at the Ring Day ceremonies.

A Beginning and an End

Ring ceremonies emphasize fidelity

The Senior Class of 1967 entered the Church of St. Pius X; anxiety mounted, and as Father Fisher celebrated the Mass, a myriad of memories and emotions expressed itself for different people in different ways. This was the twelfth of October — the Senior Ring Day.

To the students, the ring stood for three years of dedication and application finally culminating in the distinction of becoming a Senior.

To the mothers, however, this day held a special significance other than that visualized by their sons. For many mothers, this day brought the first realization that their sons were no longer boys. This transition from boyhood to manhood, from the squire to the knight, so natural and so gradual, suddenly became an abrupt realization that goals which once seemed so far away were now reaching attainment.

Father Baraniewicz, in a moving homily, discussed the qualities and responsibilities of a good knight, and explained this transition to maturity could be attributed to the student's three mothers: his natural mother, his alma mater, and his mother the Church.

After a breakfast in Sylvan Hall, Fr. Shugrue explained that this ring is a distinction in itself since only a true knight was able to wear it. The ring with its distinctive virility is not something to be treated lightly; behind it lies a symbolism — a union wth the Salesian family and their traditions.

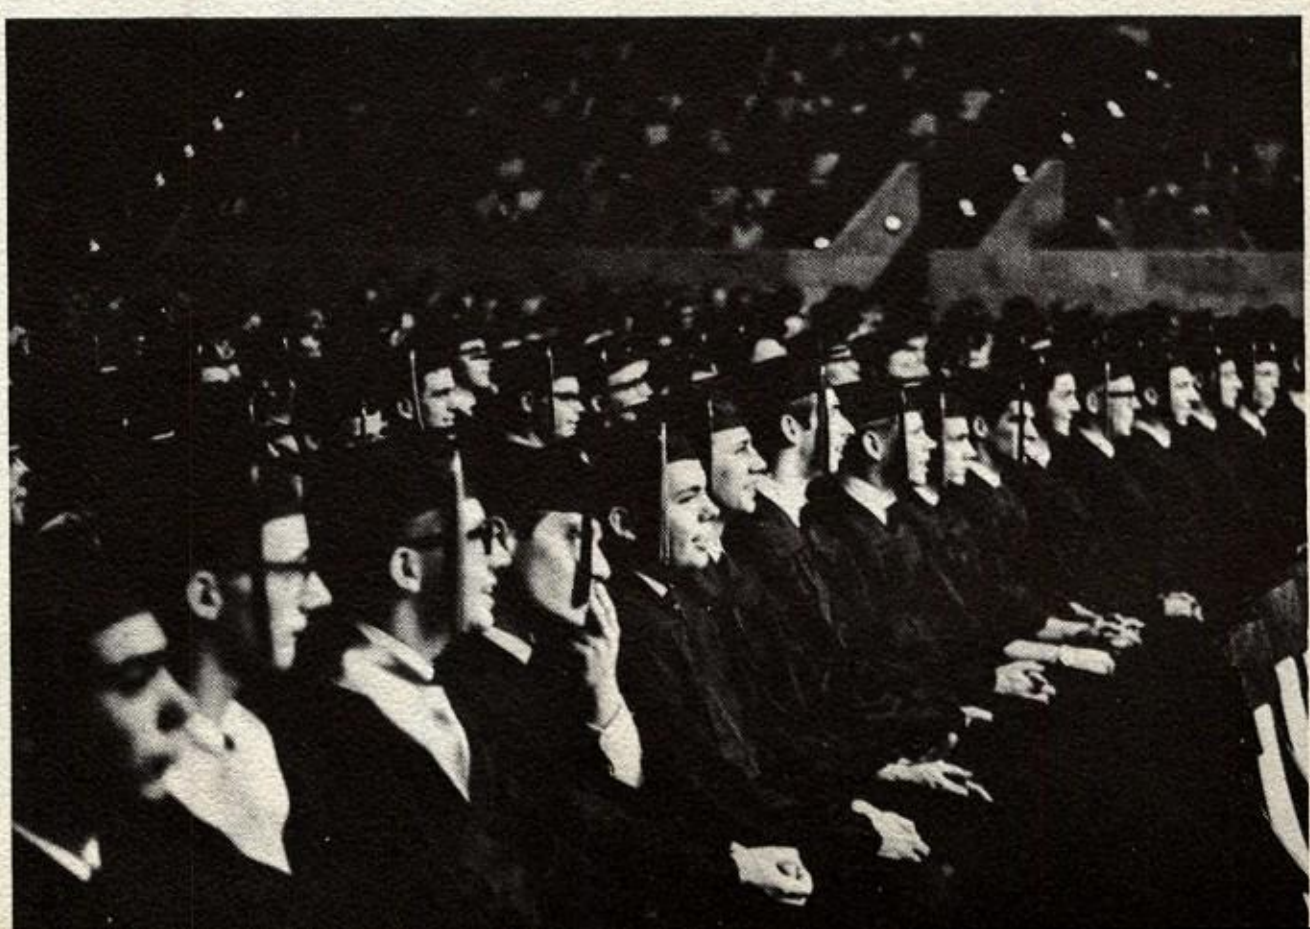
The signification of culmination and emergence is found in the graduation ceremonies at the Peristyle.

Even graduations have their lighter moments. Here a group of seniors find a little amusement in the words of the guest speaker.



GO! I SEND YOU FORTH!

As we briefly evaluate our four years at Saint Francis de Sales the memories of the events which have affected our entire educational process present themselves and demand our attention.

Who could forget the days we sported our dinks, the irritating condescension of the upperclassmen who gave a paternal chuckle to the green "Frosh", the many times we questioned the possibility that graduation would ever be tangible, or the homeworks that seemed impossible or were lost?

We recall the sophistication, pseudo-or otherwise, that came in our second year, the preparation for the big social event in the Junior year, the friends made, goals attained, the corrections and the encouragements from the faculty who somehow saw something in us that made it all seem worth it.

Ring Day provided the first realization for most of us that our high school days were numbered; it brought serious reflection about the future and about what to make the most of what we were. Finally graduation arrived—and the culmination of our first four years of Knight Life.

These memories bring myriad others. The values in which they were grounded remain, but the events are past; they are now history: a new generation emerges and a new era begins.

You will be

My witness

in all the cities of the world

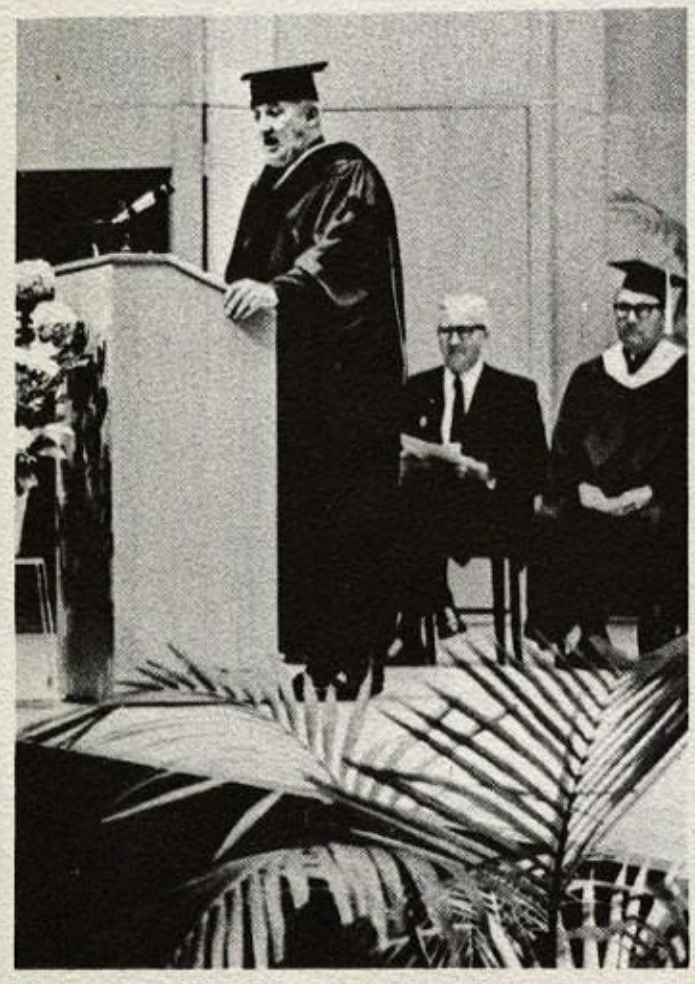
to the end of time

Father Shugrue's last formal words to the senior class of 1967 were serious words of reflection, pride, and advice.



Four years of hard work and determination shine forth in the brief moment when the graduate receives his diploma from Bishop Rehring.

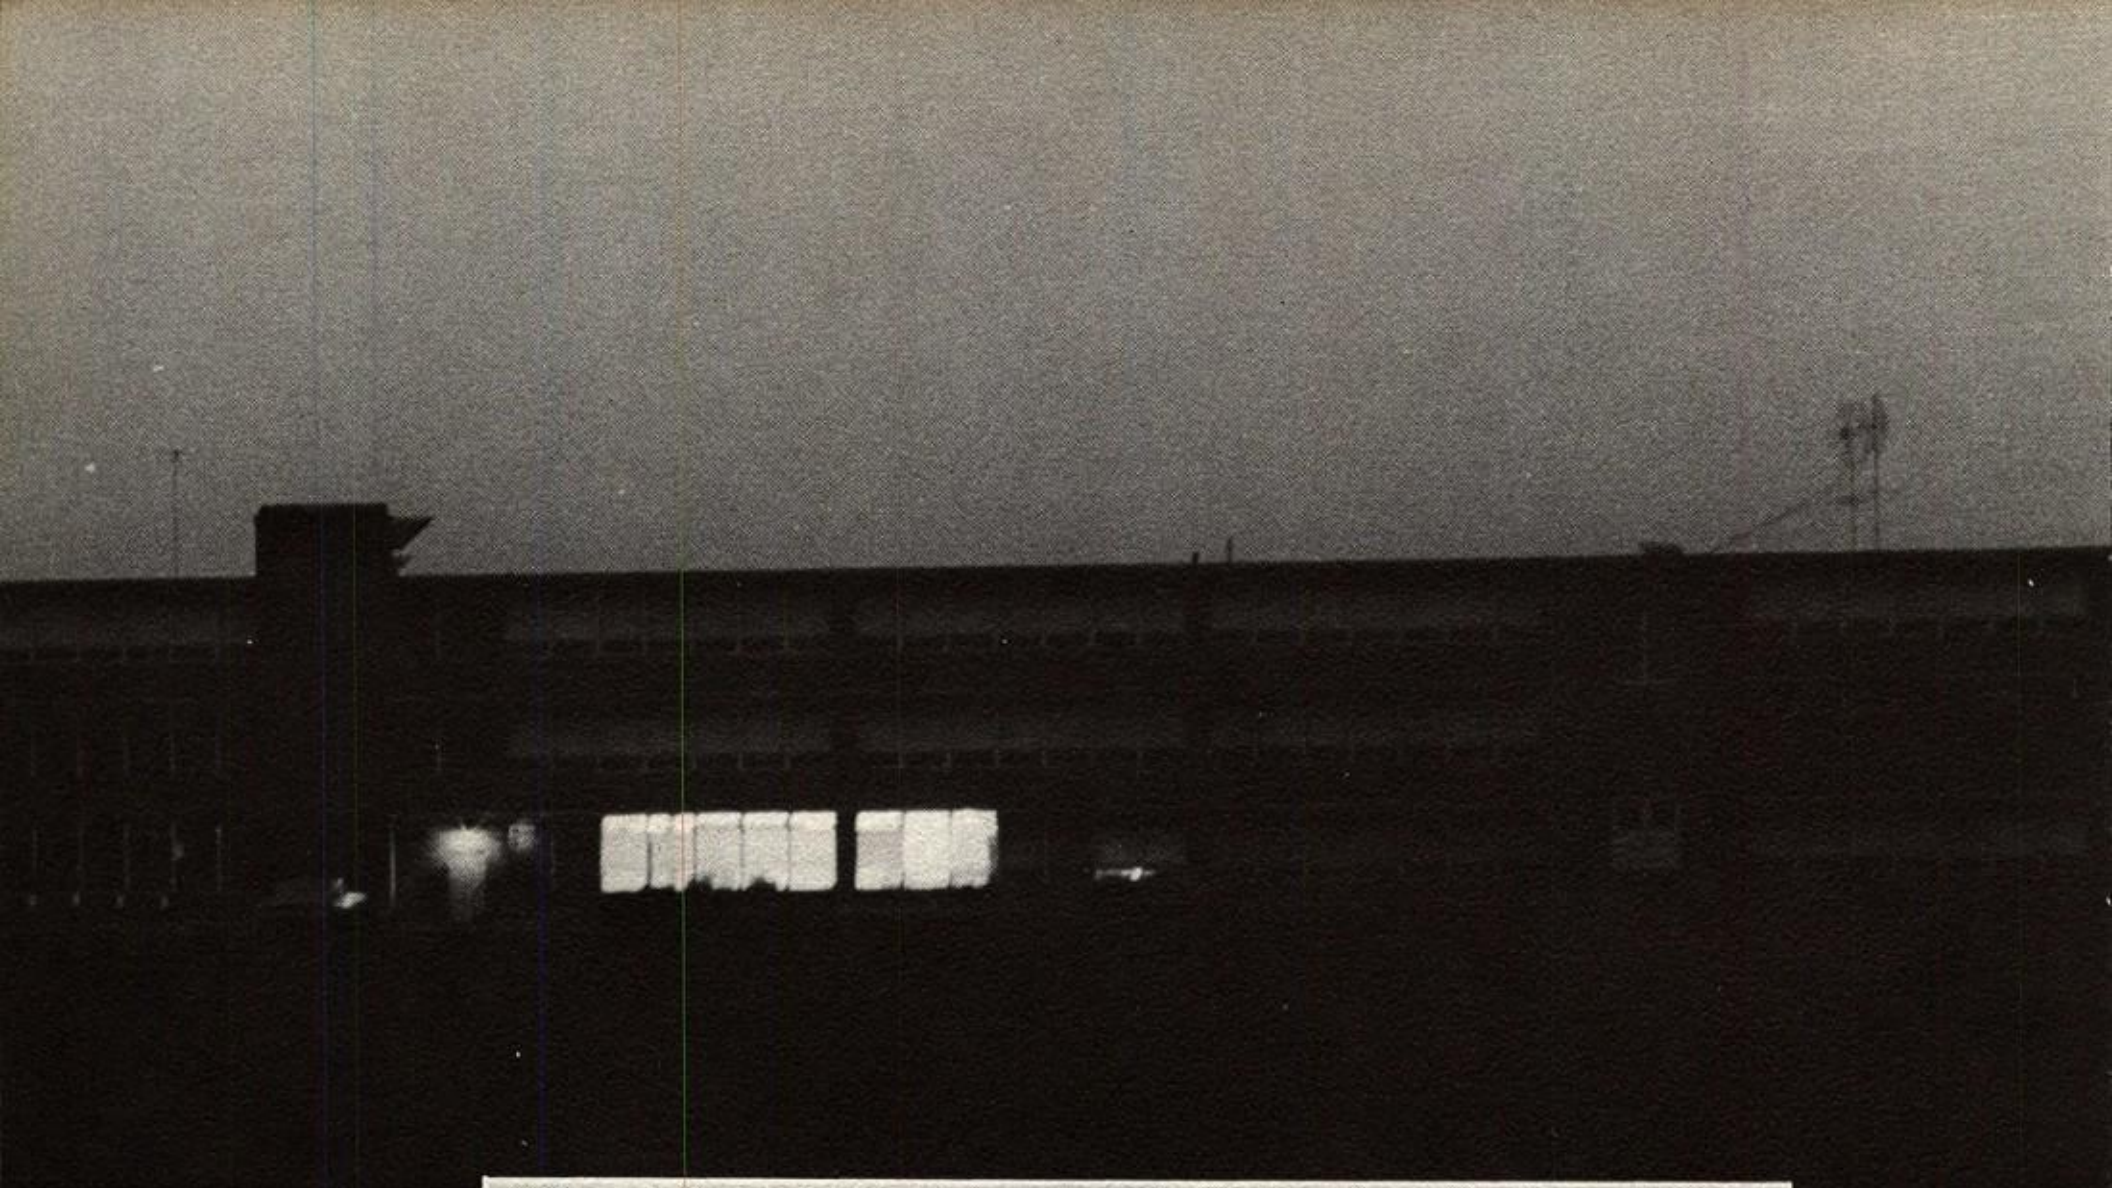
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The staff of the 1967 Accolade wishes to express its gratitude to the following: the members of the faculty; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Suprunowicz of Modern Yearbook Company for their help; Wide World Photos for the use of the pictures on pages four and five.

Bernie Reinhardt vaults over the pole in pre-season practice.



This is our school. This is our school's story. It is no one else's but ours. The sun is setting on the school year. It is not any year but this year, our year, the year of our story. Only the lights of the Accolade office are on. The lights are on the year of our story. The losses and gains have been tabulated, known things have been noted, the final events have been evaulated, the story has been frozen in ink, and the story is stored for posterity which means for a time after now which means a future now.

At first there is little to write about but the present, and then there is the unseen movement of the frozen present and the past is formed and the future is forged, and that is very much to write about. It is stored for such a time as when we would review the year in which we took our first strides towards maturity.

It is a story about the mind and the body and the community and the soul and this is almost too much to write about. From the stimulating classroom discussions, the research papers, and the homeworks which seemed insurmountable, we perfected intellectually. From the athletic programming, varsity or intramurals, we advanced physically; from the school sponsored activities outside of the classroom, we grew socially; in the availability of the sacraments and the retreats and the people who were helpful—everyone who is helpful is very helpful and this is so—we developed spiritually. In short, we grew in depth. If that happens to anyone it is not lost all the rest of his life, nobody can do anything about it, that is the way you are, and that is the way we were and still are, and anyone who is like that necessarily liked it. We did and do.

A developing spirit of selflessness and sacrifice results from this method of training in these aspects of life. This book summarizes that development. The story is now in your hands. Even though the Accolade marks an end of the story, for every story told is past, it symbolizes a beginning in being placed in your hands. That beginning is the future. To keep it so is the challenge for the generation with vision.

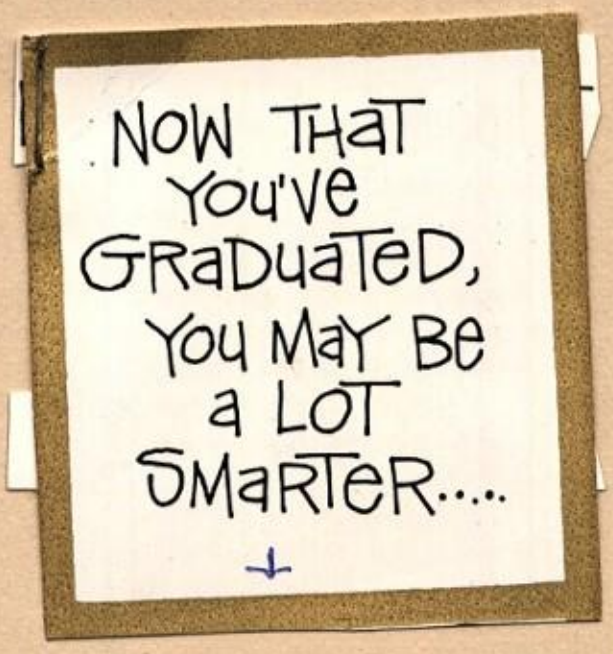
MODERN YEARBOOK Company

Hi!,

Well I really have to say that I've had more fun this year than I've ever had in my whole life. When I went out with you the first time I couldn't beleive it (Just Couldn't Beleive It) and then I never thought I'd ever get to go out with you again But I Did! (What a Miracle). Well by now you Know I'm not perfect, In fact most of the time you think I'm a big crumb and I hope you Know by now that I joke around alot too. but I'd say we get along pretty good chum. By the way I like your sailboat too (just like somebody else I Know) but I won't be selfish. I Know you have a lot of admirers (just so I come too). Sorry about all the crummy stuff that happened this year like getting grounded for half the year, not being a senior ect but..... that's me and this summer it can be different. Gee what does it feel like not to be a senior anymore?

Now your a Nothing until you're a Frosh again. I sure do hope you have gobs of fun at college but at the moment I don't want to think about that because when you leave you'll probably never come back.

Well Anyway



Love
Sue
